Pompeii Field Guide

What can we learn about ancient Roman life from the ruins of Pompeii? My goal for you is to gain an appreciation for both the history and archaeology of the ancient city of Pompeii while also interpreting archaeological finds and synthesizing archaeological and historical information in a creative manner.

You and your fellow "tour guides" will be leading a "tour" through the ancient city of Pompeii.

1. You and your group should be able to explain the brief history of Pompeii, as well as the history behind the archaeology of this city.

2. With your group, you are to lead a "tour" of the city, pointing out and describing
   a. General trends in the city (as to design, types of building, etc.).
   b. A selection of sites/buildings/locations from within the city. You and your group must research and describe a minimum of ___ locations.

3. It is required that you will research different types of buildings from the city (and not merely focus on "food shops" or "brothels" or "homes"). You and your group are to research and include 3 of the following types of buildings in Pompeii:
   - Homes
   - Businesses/Shops
   - Public Buildings / Public Spaces
   - Religious Buildings

Research Note: You should do general research on the topic of "homes" (for example) in Pompeii but you should also pick out a specific home or two (i.e. the House of the Faun) for your Field Guide/Virtual Tour.

You should have multiple sites described so that when you present your "tour" of the city, you can educate people.

NOTE: GROUPS CANNOT DUPLICATE SPECIFIC HOMES/SHOPS/SITES.
For example, if one group picks to do the House of the Faun, the other group cannot use this house on their tour.

Presentation Choices: You can choose to present this as either a video tour, a 3D model of the city, or as a "travel agency" brochure. You may not present this as a puppet show.
